7 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
9 AT SEATTLE

10 MICHAEL NEELY,

11 Plaintiff,

v.

12 THE BOEING COMPANY,

13 Defendant.

14 CASE NO. C16-1791-JCC

ORDER

15 This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff's motion for reconsideration (Dkt. No.
16 106) of the Court's order granting in part and denying in part Defendant's motion to dismiss
17 (Dkt. No. 83). Having thoroughly considered the parties' briefing and the relevant record, the 18 Court finds oral argument unnecessary and hereby DENIES the motion for the reasons explained
19 herein.

20 I. BACKGROUND

21 The Court previously discussed the underlying facts of this case and will not repeat them
22 here. (See Dkt. No. 83.) On May 15, 2018, the Court granted in part and denied in part
23 Defendant's motion to dismiss. (Id. at 13.) Plaintiff seeks reconsideration of the Court's
24 dismissal of his claims arising under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer
25 Protection Act ("Dodd-Frank Act"), 15 U.S.C § 78u-6, and the Sarbanes-Oxley Act ("SOX"), 18
26 U.S.C. § 1514. (Dkt. No. 106.)

1 II. DISCUSSION

2 A. Motion for Reconsideration Legal Standard

3 Motions for reconsideration are generally disfavored. W.D. Wash. Local Civ. R. 7(h)(1).
4 Reconsideration is only appropriate where there is “manifest error in the prior ruling or a
5 showing of new facts or legal authority which could not have been brought to [the Court’s]
6 attention earlier with reasonable diligence.” Id. “A motion for reconsideration should not be used
7 to ask the court to rethink what the court had already thought through—rightly or wrongly.”
8 Premier Harvest LLC v. AXIS Surplus Insurance Co., No. C17-0784-JCC, Dkt. No. 61 at 1
9 (W.D. Wash. 2017) (quoting U.S. v. Rezzonico, 32 F. Supp. 2d 1112, 1116 (D. Ariz. 1998)).

10 B. SOX Claim

11 The Court dismissed Plaintiff’s claim that Defendant retaliated against him in violation of 12 SOX because Plaintiff failed to allege that he engaged in activity protected by the statute. (Dkt.
13 No. 83 at 7–8.) Plaintiff argues that reconsideration is merited because the Court failed to accept
14 the factual allegations in Plaintiff’s second amended complaint as true and to credit him with all 15 reasonable inferences arising therefrom. (Dkt. No. 106 at 2–7.) Although Plaintiff asserts that the 16 Court committed manifest error, he simply reiterates the arguments he raised in his response to 17 Defendant’s motion to dismiss. (Compare id., with Dkt. No. 63 at 12–14.) Plaintiff’s
18 disagreement with the Court’s analysis of the factual allegations in the second amended
19 complaint and Plaintiff’s arguments in response to Defendant’s motion to dismiss is insufficient
20 to show manifest error in the Court’s ruling meriting reconsideration. W.D. Wash. Local Civ. R.
21 7(h)(1); Premier Harvest LLC, No. C17-0784-JCC, Dkt. No. 61 at 1. Therefore, Plaintiff’s
22 motion for reconsideration is DENIED on this ground.

23 C. Dodd-Frank Act Claim

24 The Court dismissed Plaintiff’s claim for retaliation in violation of the Dodd-Frank Act
25 because Plaintiff did not allege that he reported any alleged misconduct to the Securities and 26 Exchange Commission (“SEC”), and therefore did not qualify as a “whistleblower” under the

1 Dodd-Frank Act's anti-retaliation provision. (Dkt. No. 83 at 6) (citing Digital Realty Tr., Inc. v.
2 Somers, 138 S. Ct. 767, 777 (2018); 15 U.S.C. § 78u-6(a)(6)).¹ Plaintiff argues that the Supreme
3 Court's decision in Digital Realty was issued after the briefing had closed on Defendant's motion
4 to dismiss, and therefore constitutes new legal authority that could not have been brought to the 5 Court's attention earlier with reasonable diligence. (Dkt. No. 106 at 3–4, 7–8.) But the Digital
6 Realty decision was brought to the Court's attention prior to its decision on Defendant's motion
7 to dismiss. Defendant filed a notice of supplemental authority notifying the Court of Digital
8 Realty while the Court was considering Defendant's motion to dismiss, and the Court's order on 9 Defendant's motion to dismiss relied on Digital Realty in dismissing Plaintiff's Dodd-Frank Act
10 claim. (See Dkt. Nos. 77, 83 at 6.) Therefore, the Supreme Court's decision in Digital Realty
11 does not constitute new legal authority meriting reconsideration of the Court's order on 12 Defendant's motion to dismiss. W.D. Wash. Local Civ. R. 7(h)(1).

13 Plaintiff also contends that new facts justify reconsideration of the Court's decision. He 14 asserts that he now falls within the definition of a whistleblower under Digital Realty because he 15 filed a complaint with the SEC three days after the Court's order on Defendant's motion to 16 dismiss. (Dkt. No. 106 at 2, 7–8.) But Plaintiff's filing of an SEC complaint after the Court
17 issued its order does not constitute new factual matter that could not have been brought earlier
18 with reasonable diligence meriting reconsideration. W.D. Wash. Local Civ. R. 7(h)(1).
19 Moreover, the Court dismissed Plaintiff's Dodd-Frank Act claim because he did not qualify as a
20 whistleblower when Defendant allegedly retaliated against him. (See Dkt. No. 83 at 6.)
21 Plaintiff's filing of a complaint with the SEC in 2018 to qualify as a whistleblower years after 22 the alleged retaliatory acts occurred cannot cure the deficiencies in his Dodd-Frank Act claim.

24 ¹ In Digital Realty, the Supreme Court held that a plaintiff must report alleged unlawful
25 conduct to the SEC in order to qualify as a "whistleblower" under the Dodd-Frank Act, reversing 26 the Ninth Circuit's holding that a plaintiff qualified as a "whistleblower" if they reported alleged unlawful activity to only their employer, as opposed to the SEC. 138 S. Ct. at 777 (2018); see Somers v. Digital Realty Tr. Inc., 850 F.3d 1045, 1051 (9th Cir. 2017).

1 (See id.) Therefore, Plaintiff's motion for reconsideration is DENIED on this ground.

3 III. CONCLUSION

4 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff's motion for reconsideration (Dkt. No. 106) is 5 DENIED.

6 DATED this 17th day of May 2019.
